Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Wednesday 17 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mostly dry and bright, some low cloud in the west.

Today:
A largely dry day with a good deal of high cloud. Patchy low cloud along the west coast. Low cloud thickens across the Western Isles in the afternoon giving a little patchy light drizzle.

Tonight:
A cloudy evening and night. Low cloud thickens around the north and west coasts giving fog and patchy light drizzle. Dry elsewhere.

Thursday:
Low cloud affects much of the north, with patchy light drizzle along the north and northwest coasts. Dry and brighter further south with high cloud and perhaps some hazy sunshine.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
A rather cloudy few days, with low cloud likely to give some patchy light drizzle at times along the north and east coasts Friday and west coast Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.